FRENCH MILITARY ACT CONFIRMED FOR LEADING ROLE AT THE ROYAL EDINBURGH MILITARY TATTOO IN AUSTRALIA

- More than 50 performers will appear in biggest ever show at ANZ Stadium in Sydney

Following an outstanding performance at this year's Royal Edinburgh Military Tattoo in Edinburgh, La Musique de L'Artillerie will say 'bonjour' to Australia this week, as they arrive in Sydney for the Tattoo's showcase down under.

Taking place at the ANZ Stadium between 17-19 October, the Artillery Band of the French Army will participate alongside more than 1,500 international performers, the biggest-ever cast line up in the Tattoo's 69-year history.

Based in Gerland, Lyon and led by Major Laurent Arandel, Director of Music, the group of 50 musicians will perform in their characteristic blue uniforms, delivering a precision marching and musical display.

France and Australia hold close links as nations after the legacy of the Australian involvement on French soil in the First and Second World Wars which continues to play an important role in the mutual relationship.

Presenting an upbeat and diverse set, the group will showcase its broad repertoire as they unleash their take on Bruno Mars' 'Uptown Funk' to 'Les Parapluies de Cherbourg' (I Will Wait For You) from the classic French romantic drama, The Umbrellas of Cherbourg. As the famous composer Michael Legrand passed away earlier this year the group's performance will pay tribute.

More than 100 dancers from the Tattoo Dance Company will join Music de L'Artillerie musicians on stage for a performance of the classic 'CanCan' with dancers dressed in traditional red, white and blue skirts.

Under the theme 'At All Points of the Compass', the Tattoo in Sydney will take guests on a tour of the world, guiding them around 360 degrees of the atlas to tell the compelling tale of Australia's place in history and its links with allies and friends, including France.

To celebrate this theme, the Australian show will take the audience on a circular tour around an imaginary compass rose with its centre at the dusty red heart of the continent - at Lambert Centre. For thousands of years, the indigenous people of Australia navigated their 'country' using 'songlines' - an oral tradition of routes travelled - and with this notion as inspiration, five 'song men' will guide the audience to the edge of traditional lands, welcoming each international group to perform in turn.

The concept reinforces the purpose of the Tattoo in helping bring people together, to better understand each other's cultures and ways of life to "arrive as strangers and leave as friends".

Joining the French band will be Tattoo fan-favourites the Massed Pipes and Drums, Pipers Trail, Hjaltibonhoga (The Shetland Fiddlers) and Tattoo Dance Company, alongside a strong contingent from the Australian Defence Force.

The Tattoo returns to Australia with production partners, the Michael Cassel Group, as part of its ambitious Strategy for Growth. Announced in 2018, the ambitious growth programme includes doubling its turnover to £20 million by 2025 as well as additional signposted overseas tours to Canada and China by 2021. Work is already underway with the business in regular conversations with the UK, Scottish and International Governments, local promoters and support networks.

Brigadier David Allfrey MBE, Chief Executive and Producer at the Tattoo, said: "We are proud and privileged to bring - in equal measure - the heritage and innovation of the Tattoo to our Australian audiences and are thrilled that France are able to join the line-up. Not only do our nations have a wonderful shared history but also, we know well the richness of French culture, music and the long connections with the United Kingdom and Australia. The military and cultural performers will perform alongside the other countries and Pacific nations who are taking part. Above all though they will make their own special impact across the span of the Show."

"We return to Australia as part of a new period of growth for the Tattoo. This is an exciting step change for us reaching anew across the world, first to Australia, then over the next two years to China and North America. The Tattoo is all about bringing people together to reinforce relationships already made and making new friends for the future."

Chief of the Defence Force, General Angus Campbell said he was pleased to see Australia once again hosting this world famous event and welcomed all participants to Australia.

"The largest ever Tattoo in Sydney will present an international cast of talented performers from around the world. It is a unique celebration of music and military tradition in a colourful display of music, dance and military precision.

"Participation in the Tattoo allows Australia to demonstrate the professional skills and high performance of our armed forces," General Campbell said.

The Australian Defence Force (ADF) has provided a range of ceremonial and logistic support to the Royal Edinburgh Military Tattoo including more than 250 cast members, air and ground transport and co-ordination for participating nations.

"I am delighted that the ADF will once again be part of this world-class event,"
